

Darkness is lurking in every corner inside the labyrinth of narrow passages and dead ends. It's the underworld of any town: gloomy and unpleasant.

The street lamps cast their eerie glow on the wet asphalt. The buildings looming over, like a forest of stone. No one dares to enter the alleyway at night!

Urban "nekos", as people call them, have been in the area for a long time, organized in clans. They are hybrid creatures part human part cat. Being mostly excluded from the society they fight other groups to keep their domain. The alley nekos are primarily peaceful and quiet when one is disturbing their peace but their battles can be pretty bloody and extreme to defend their clan.

Rinku moves like a shadow, as invisible as the darkness, blending in to the night. His ears are his most powerful source of information for locating enemies at distance and protecting his territory.

He has special ninja skills which give him a well respected position in the clan. His simple gaze makes the enemies blood run cold because they know his powerful abilities. ^^ His agility to fighting, climbing, jumping, even catch and kill if he has to, is incomparable.

He carries an utility belt equipped with sharp knives, dynamite, a pouch of shurikens at the reach of his right hand, a can of spray paint to leave his "signature" and warnings to opponents on the walls and his favorite catnip cigars to enjoy in his time of relax! ^^

He wears oversized dropped cargo pants with side pockets, combat boots, arm warmers tied with ropes, a "mercenary"-type sleeveless red jacket with structured collar and padded shoulders, a chain mail scarf.

His lynx ears are pierced and yes, he has cat fangs, a tail and some nasty scars.

Apart from from his fierce warrior traits, he's not just plain mean like many others in his clan - life on the streets of course made them hard!

Rinku is curious, smart, adventurous, charming, enjoys being sarcastic, he can even be goofy at times and has a lot of attitude. He dreams about leaving the city one day to somewhere green and quiet... which sometimes seems to be an impossible dream. His favorite food is tuna. He loves music and to blend into the local population in broad daylight when he has a chance.

Are you ready for Rinku? ^^

Character by Luisa Mesquita / Looloo for Ringdoll BJD